

A photograph of a modern interior featuring a disappearing door system. On the left, a large glass door with a white frame and a vertical silver handle is partially open, revealing a white wall. To the right, a white door frame is set into a white wall, leading into a living room. The living room has a dark grey sectional sofa, a white coffee table, and a window with blue and white striped curtains. The floor is made of large, polished, light-colored tiles. The bottom of the image is overlaid with a red banner containing white text.
